BRANDON

CHAIRMAN OF ORGANISING COMMITTEE
SINGAPORE INTERIOR
DESIGN AWARDS 2023 (SIDA)

WELCOME MESSAGE

I am Brandon Fee - a Council member of the Society of Interior Designers Singapore (SIDS) and Chairman of the Organising Committee of Singapore Interior Design Awards 2023 (SIDA).

SIDA, as one of the most established design competitions and awards programs in the region, marks its 7th edition this year. We owe our success to the exceptional participation we receive every year. We created SIDA to promote design excellence and showcase designer profiles within our interior design industry. Over the years, this design competition has expanded beyond our shores, attracting more than 700 entries annually from designers worldwide. Thanks to your support, we are confident we will continue to soar to new heights.

SIDA has become popular not only as a well-organised competition but also as a respected awards program recognised by our peers and partners. We carefully curated and assembled a new jury panel annually comprising 15 renowned designers worldwide who will judge and score entries based on stringent criteria. We also endow our award recipients with an unforgettable prize presentation and gala dinner experience. These hallmarks draw many participants to return each year to pit themselves against the best despite the ever-rising design standards and quality.

We are ecstatic to have received over 3000 entries since the first edition and presented 1274 awards to deserving recipients over the years. These numbers represent significant contributions to the global GDP and have a multiplying effect on the local economy, cross-border resources, and transnational supply chains required to support each project's fruition, regardless of location. On top of the record-breaking submission we received for 2023, representing a 55% increase from last year. We will be conferring our first Gold recipient from participants outside Asia. This recognition marks a milestone for SIDA, thus reflecting our continuous effort to challenge and promote our designers to compete globally. Separately, we decided to decouple our SIDA's Youth awards from this year onwards, specifically to provide our future generation of designers with a dedicated platform to commemorate the start of their design careers. We strongly encourage our award recipients and members to play mentors through their capacity and practice so you can pass on valuable knowledge and vital experience to these young designers.

One of SIDA's unique features is the annual concept that we create. This intention not only provides our participants with a reference point for their career development but also allows us, as the organiser, a platform for us to convey our message on behalf of the industry. This year, the theme reflects the challenges and aspirations of all our award recipients. "Reach For The Stars" was explicitly chosen to close a chapter of a disruptive triennial. It reminds design practitioners to forge ahead with renewed creative energy amidst the frustration and curtail encountered previously. And to inspire all designers to chase their dreams and find their niches in an industry potentially challenged by emerging and possibly disruptive technology paired with unpredictable global supply chains and geopolitics.

At SIDA, we strive to stay relevant by adapting to the ever-changing design landscape. To fulfil our mission, we are constantly reviewing our objectives and our industry. Therefore, we created ten new design categories, including eight special awards this year to recognise the significance of practitioners, educators and sustainability. As the organisers, we welcome feedback from various groups and representatives to ensure that SIDA can uplift our industry and practitioners within their respective fields and expertise.

"As a single star, your glow represents a beacon of inspiration. As a collective, we form a constellation which resonates with time."

Sincerely,

Brandon Fee

NITHIPONG SUBANEKNAN

DEPUTY CHAIRMAN OF ORGANISING COMMITTEE
SINGAPORE INTERIOR
DESIGN AWARDS 2023 (SIDA)

I'm Nithipong Subaneknan - Council member of the Society of Interior Designers Singapore (SIDS) and Deputy Chairman of Organising Committee of Singapore Interior Design Awards 2023 (SIDA)

I extend a warm and hearty welcome to fellow design enthusiast to witness the triumphant celebration of those individuals who have not only excelled but have also made significant contributions to the field of design. We are honored to have you join this journey with us. Your participations underscores the collective commitment to recognizing and celebrating design excellence.

This year, within the youth categories for SIDA design submission entries, we have received more than 100 entries spanning seven distinct categories, originating from a diverse range of over nine local educational institutions. Remarkably, we have also welcomed our inaugural international submissions, hailing from countries including Hong Kong, China, Indonesia, Philippines and the United Kingdom. This international engagement vividly underscores the burgeoning interest in design education and the palpable enthusiasm exhibited by young designers, eager to exhibit their talent within the field of interior design.

To address a relevant topic for young designers, it would be remiss not to acknowledge the current trends that are both timely and omnipresent in our daily lives at this moment. In an era marked by the exponential acceleration of technology, individuals across various domains seek to harness the latest tools to gain a competitive advantage. As countless individuals endeavor to stay relevant on social media platforms, contesting for attention, the recent surge in AI and machine learning technology earlier this year has catalyzed yet another wave of change. Thought leaders across various industries advocate for the integration of these technological advancements into our daily lives, warning that failure to do so may result in being left behind. The field of interior design is no exception.

While the incorporation of technological advancements into the realm of design may indeed create an impression of excellence, it is crucial to recognize that the true essence of design lies in the meticulous care and creativity applied by designers. Designers infuse their work with thoughts that extend across various dimensions and senses, making it clear that, even in the face of technological progress, design remains deeply rooted in fundamental principles.

With all that has been articulated, I wholeheartedly encourage all young designers to persist in their exploration of new tools and to remain dedicated to the ongoing expansion of their knowledge base. It is essential to strive for continual improvement, transcending one's current boundaries in pursuit of a holistic understanding of design. I am genuinely excited and eagerly anticipate the entries that will be submitted in the upcoming year. Your dedication to the field is a source of inspiration, and I look forward to witnessing your future achievements.

Lastly, I would like to express our appreciation to all those who have recognized the value of our initiatives and chosen to participate in the various activities that SIDS proudly introduces and extends to the passionate and aspiring young interior designers and professional practitioners. Your involvement in our organization contributes to the ongoing elevation of not only the interior design industry but also the broader design sector as a whole. Thank you for being a part of this important endeavor.

Sincerely,

About Our Company

TECE, a family-run business for over 30 years, thrives on customer curiosity, inspiring us to create thoughtful products and services while propelling our innovative spirit into the future.

Lower installation height, more design freedom

Countertop washbasins are highly favored, especially in hospitality settings, due to their sophisticated appearance. However, integrating these washbasins with toilets at the same user-friendly height can be a challenge for installers. The typical height of standard toilet modules often doesn't align well with this requirement. In contrast, the TECConstruct toilet module is a game-changer with its installation height of just 750 mm, making it the perfect solution for seamlessly combining washbasin and toilet at the same comfortable height.
